- Domestic violence
- POSH

Along with many other contemporary and pertinent issues.

Nawal Foundation is a dedicated social initiative committed to promoting constitutional values, climate justice, and youth empowerment across educational institutions. Through structured workshops, interactive sessions, and awareness programs, the Foundation seeks to bridge the gap between environmental responsibility and constitutional literacy among students aged 14–18 years.

Under its flagship program on Climate Justice & Youth Rights, Nawal Foundation introduces students to the principles of environmental protection, intergenerational equity, and the role of the Constitution of India in safeguarding fundamental rights and duties. The program connects climate action with constitutional provisions such as Article 21 (Right to Life) and Article 51A(g) (Fundamental Duty to protect the environment), encouraging informed and responsible citizenship

Respected Sir/Madam,

Greetings from Nawal Foundation

We are writing to propose an interactive guest lecture for your Classes XI–XII Legal Studies students titled:

“Climate Justice & Youth Rights – The Planet Has Rights Too, And So Do Future Generations.”

In today’s context of climate change and environmental challenges, it is essential that students understand not only environmental law but also their constitutional duties and civic responsibilities. This 90-minute session combines legal awareness, ethical discussion, and active student engagement through activities such as a Mock Green Tribunal simulation.

The program aligns with

- * Intergenerational equity
- * Article 51A(g) – Fundamental Duty
- * Environmental PILs and judicial intervention
- * Development vs sustainability debates

Students will receive participation certificates titled “Climate Justice Ambassador – Youth for Intergenerational Equity.”

We would be honoured to collaborate with your institution in nurturing environmentally responsible and constitutionally aware citizens
